Report description:

Baby food in Egypt is witnessing a decrease in current retail volume sales during 2023, with a huge increase in current retail value terms, due to prices rising more than 70% in the fourth quarter of 2022. As baby food products are mostly imported, the three waves of currency devaluation that started in March 2022 impacted consumers purchasing power, and the distributor's ability to buy and stock, with price points doubling.
