Report description:

Soy drinks is the best-known and most popular plant-based dairy sub-category in Indonesia, followed by mung bean milk. Soy drinks have a long history in Indonesia and are enjoyed by many consumers. Their positioning is not so much as a milk alternative but simply as another type of drink which is made from beans (soybean or mung beans, etc). Soy drinks also have wide distribution channels and are available in both retail and foodservice, although the latter uses unbranded variants. In retail, br...
