Report description:

Analgesics benefitted from the era of COVID-19, as consumers sought out pain relief such as acetaminophen and ibuprofen, both of which saw extensive coverage in the media as low-cost products that could treat symptoms of the virus quickly and efficiently. Added to this, as there were restrictions on mobility and the opening of stores, many people stockpiled products in order to avoid any shortages of required medicines at home. However, 2023 shows a very different picture. We are now in the post...
