Report description:

Hair loss treatments is expected to continue to see strong retail volume and current value growth over 2023. Indeed, hair loss treatments is projected to record the fastest retail volume growth at the end of the review period. Mild-to-severe hair loss has been reported as one of the post-Coronavirus (COVID-19) symptoms, triggering the demand for hair loss treatments. In addition, severe economic concerns amid an inflationary climate have increased stress and anxiety levels and contributed to the...
