Report description:

In general, paediatric consumer health recorded strong retail volume growth during the early-to-mid-review period, with the outbreak of Coronavirus (COVID-19) in 2020 providing a particular fillip to demand. However, as the pandemic threat eased, the demand for paediatric consumer health stabilised, with numerous categories seeing declines in retail volume sales towards the end of the review period. Nonetheless, growing awareness of the child care and health needs of children among Turkish paren...
