Report description:

The demand for sleep aids increased during the height of the Coronavirus (COVID-19). Heightened stress and anxiety levels increased the numbers of users and fostered greater use of sleep aids amid health, economic and social uncertainty. The post-COVID-19 economic slowdown, high inflation, job insecurity, the war in Ukraine and excessive use of digital screens have all had negative impacts on sleep patterns towards the end of the review period. Sleep disorders are becoming increasingly common ac...
