Report description:

Menswear is experiencing a strong rebound, recording high double-digit retail volume and current value growth in 2023, although overall demand remains significantly below pre-pandemic levels. With Hong Kong's border reopening, tourists are gradually returning. As tourist consumption historically accounted for 20-30% of apparel retail sales in Hong Kong, the return of tourist expenditure is likely to become the main growth driver of menswear's recovery in the coming years.
