Rising Demand for High Ambient Temperature Applications Fuel the Middle East & Africa ANSI Cartridge Seals Market

A cartridge seal is used in water pumps to provide reliable and efficient sealing solutions. KSB SE & Co. KGaA, a Germany-based company, has launched water pumps for high ambient temperatures. In this pump, a double cartridge seal is used. The cartridge can be replaced as a complete unit. The pump is capable of transferring fluids with a temperature of up to 40 \square C and operating in environments with a temperature of up to 55 \square C. It gives an advantage to the pump to be used in high-temperature countries where the pumps are often dry-installed in air-conditioned rooms. Such development in the cartridge seal is helping to boost the adoption of the seal in high-temperature countries.
