Report description:

The growth of gross lending in consumer lending for 2023 is moderate and slower than what was anticipated a year ago. Factors such as surging inflation, an escalating energy crisis exacerbated by the Russian invasion of Ukraine (with its effects fully realised in 2023), and a significant spike in interest rates have collectively impeded the pace of growth. Both banks and consumers have adopted a more conservative approach in response. However, positive growth is sustained through the expansion o...
