Report description:

Contrary to the previous harvest, the 2022/2023 season witnessed a substantial decrease in olive oil production, primarily due to the drought in 2022. Almost half of the total production was affected, with DOP olive oil taking an even greater hit. Given that Portugal is one of the world's major olive oil producers, this situation has had significant repercussions on both domestic consumption and exports. This decline in production has led to a reduction in volume consumption throughout 2022, and...
