Report description:

After a significant decline in demand in 2022, retail volume sales of large cooking appliances are growing in 2023, albeit slowly, benefiting both national and international manufacturers in the country. On the other hand, retail value growth's moderate single-digit growth is mainly being boosted by inflationary prices in built-in hobs, cookers and cooker hoods. Weak retail volume growth is directly related to consumption confidence and household budget constraints. Some large cooking appliances...
