Report description:

While current value sales are expected to increase, constant value sales are expected to fall. Rising costs hit profitability, as inflation is still an issue, though the rises in prices is easing. That being said, volume sales are expected to increase, largely supported by population growth. Processed seafood performs better than processed meat in terms of volume growth, as processed meat is hit with higher price rises. However, processed meat still accounts for more volume sales than processed...
