Report description:

Rising input costs such as the cost of animal feed and installing a more stable electricity supply has resulted in price hikes for eggs. The cost of feed, fuel and electricity usually accounts for 75% of input costs for producers. Grain shortages due to the war in Ukraine, with the region being one of the biggest global suppliers of grain, has also contributed to a steep increase in feed prices. Furthermore, not only is South Africa experiencing power outages due to the unstable electricity avai...
