Report description:

The growth of air treatment products slowed down significantly in 2023, notably due to reduced sales of air purifiers. These were top sellers during the outbreak of COVID-19, benefiting from a heightened interest in health and hygiene. As such, in comparison to the uplift of the years prior, a retail volume decline was noted for air purifiers in 2023. In addition, air conditioners also struggled, moving into a retail volume decline for the year.
