Report description:

The prices of most products in food preparation appliances were subjected to hikes, driven by rising inflation, and an uplift in costs for transportation and manufacturing in 2022. While transport and shipping costs were beginning to normalise, price hikes remained high in Q1 and Q2 of 2023. During 2022, importers and retailers aimed to absorb part of the cost increase to prevent strong declines in retail volume. As demand returned to a positive place in 2023, companies increased prices to balan...
