Report description:

Following the recovery from COVID-19, in 2022, consumers moved spending towards services above goods, leading to a decline in sales of consumer appliances. In addition, spending on consumer appliances was heightened during the outbreak, with home seclusion boosting the use of these products. Following this decline, in 2023, there was an increase in growth, with value being significantly higher than volume due to inflation. The premiumisation trend was also evident in 2023, with consumers trading...
