Report description:

The weaker economy in 2023 has led many consumers to restrict spending on eating out and self-service cafeterias are equally feeling the impact. Inflation has remained high in 2023, leading to higher prices in self-service cafeterias, which is stifling demand but equally underpinning current value growth. After the pandemic in 2022, consumers chose to spend more time outside and in retail locations, which also benefitted self-service cafeterias.
