- Modular kitchen designs have been popular in Saudi Arabia for quite some time. Modular kitchens' convenience and seamless experience are the main reasons for their growing popularity.
- Although modular kitchens are a foreign idea, they are unquestionably one of the advantages of adopting Western techniques. Traditional Saudi Arabian kitchens have served us well, but as times change, development becomes a free add-on that is necessary for progress.
- The rise of modular kitchens and customer demand for convenient kitchen appliances are driving the market for kitchen range hoods. Over the years, Indian kitchens have evolved.
- As disposable income has increased and demand for convenience goods has increased, carpenter-built kitchens have been supplanted with modular kitchens. Because they may be tailored to clients' needs, these cabinets are sometimes known as "ready-to-install" cabinets. As a result, kitchen hoods have become more popular and have moved more quickly onto the market.

Kitchen Hood Innovations are Driving Market Growth

- Manufacturers of kitchen hoods are introducing additional features into their products to keep up with technological advancements.
- Hafele, a German manufacturer, unveiled the TERESA i90 Plus, India's first intelligent filter-less range hood, in the Indian kitchen hood market. It has twice the filtering capacity of traditional filter hoods. A sensitive air quality sensor is included in the device, which detects and eliminates smoke and other dangerous, volatile organic compounds (VOCs) from the kitchen air.
