Report description:

In 2023, the cost of bleach was noticeably on the rise. Several factors, led by high inflation, which caused elevated costs of imported raw materials and production, exerted upward pressure on unit prices of bleach in Tunisia. Moreover, distribution costs, especially in terms of transportation, proved a pivotal factor in the overall escalation of bleach prices. The strong economic challenges underscored the intricate interplay of market dynamics, whereby both global and local elements had a bear...
