Report description:

In 2023, retail value growth soared due to rising price points, while retail volume sales remained positive, driven by an uplift in sales for automatic dishwashing liquid and tablets. The steep devaluation of the currency during the year led to higher production, import, and distribution costs, causing a double-digit rise in the average unit prices of products in this category. With grocery retailers' staggering price rises in stores, consumers bought products in bulk before higher prices were i...
