Report description:

Home insecticides in Bulgaria declined in retail volume sales in 2023, impacted by the fall in the property market. Moreover, people in the cities increasingly use the services of insect control companies, which provide an easy, quick, effective and durable way to get rid of insects in an entire building or apartment. On the other hand, home insecticides' value sales continued to rise, although much slower than in the previous year, based on ongoing price increases boosting value share.
