Report description:

Home insecticides is a seasonal product, where demand can vary from summer to summer, based on the size of the insect population. With the summer of 2023 not as hot as the previous year, volume growth was marginal. The standout performer was insecticide baits, which registered double-digit percentage volume growth. Insecticide baits offer a targeted and discreet solution for pest control and are becoming a preferred choice among consumers. As such, the convenience and effectiveness of these bait...
