Report description:

The increasing awareness of the link between high sugar consumption and obesity, especially amongst children, has shed light on the importance of reducing the sugar content of highly calorific foods, including snacks. Indeed, growing awareness of the role of sugar in the development of childhood obesity led the Association of Greek Soft Drinks Industries (SEVA) to launch an initiative to reduce sugar in its products by 10% early in the review period. Within snacks, chocolate confectionery is a c...
