Report description:

Flexible aluminium/plastic was the dominant pack type in dry soup, which, given it is the biggest category in overall meals and soups, was therefore the dominant meals and soups packaging format. Flexible aluminium/plastic was also growing in 2022, and even recorded a slight increase in its pack type share in overall meals and soups packaging in this year. Flexible aluminium/plastic is lightweight, making it easy to transport and handle. This is especially important for convenience foods that ne...
