Report description:

Tea is set to register mid single-digit retail current value growth in China in 2023, along with slower retail volume growth, with foodservice volumes also expected to continue to rebound. Actual retail value growth is mainly attributable to black tea and other tea, which includes common types of tea commonly consumed by Chinese consumers, including oolong tea and pu'er. One of the key drivers of growth for the fastest growing tea categories (fruit/herbal tea, black tea, and other tea) is the he...
