Report description:

Ridesharing insurance is a sort of auto insurance that bridges the gap between the personal auto insurance and the commercial auto insurance policy offered by the ridesharing company. Furthermore, although it is not required by law, rideshare drivers may choose to acquire additional coverage to increase their protection against accidents that result in harm or damage to themselves or other people.

The increasing popularity of ridesharing services such as Uber and Lyft is driving the demand for insurance coverage for rideshare drivers. In addition, the growing awareness about insurance and the benefits of having insurance coverage is driving the demand for rideshare insurance. However, the high costs of insurance coverage for rideshare drivers is a significant restraint for the growth of the rideshare insurance market. On the contrary, the increasing use of technology in the ridesharing industry, such as telematics and predictive analytics, provides significant opportunities for the rideshare insurance market growth.

The rideshare insurance market is segmented into coverage and region. By coverage, the market is divided into liability coverage, collision coverage, underinsured/uninsured motorist coverage, comprehensive coverage, and others. Region wise, the market is analyzed across North America, Europe, Asia-Pacific, and LAMEA. □

The rideshare insurance market analysis includes top companies operating in the market such as Allstate Insurance Company, Progressive Casualty Insurance Company, State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, AXA, Allianz, Bingle Insurance, USAA, NerdWallet, Inc., Farmers, and Erie Indemnity Co. These players have adopted various strategies to increase their market penetration and strengthen their position in the rideshare insurance industry. □□
