Report description:

Cat food is expected to maintain strong growth in South Korea in 2024, with a high single-digit current value increase, continuing the trend observed in 2023. However, the increases in these two years were lower than the steady double-digit growth rates seen in previous years, with several factors contributing to this shift. Factors such as the high inflation rate, which resulted in an increase in the cost of living, along with the higher prices of cat food, and a slowdown in the growth of the c...
