Report description:

Although juice is expected to register positive volume growth, there is expected to be a slowdown in volume growth compared with the previous year. This slowdown is due to the growing maturity of juice, coupled with declining disposable incomes driven by high inflation. This is leading to a degree of trading down, with consumers more driven by price than quality. This can also be seen in terms of packaging, with a shift from carton to PET, as PET is more cost effective than carton. Indeed, PET h...
