Report description:

Sales of tobacco in Japan remained fairly stable in retail current value terms in 2023. The Japanese government reclassified COVID-19 in May 2023, moving it from a level two to level five infectious disease. The new level is the same class as seasonal influenza, and this made consumers less afraid to go out. Face masks were no longer considered a necessity whenever outside of the house, or at least when close to others. People began to leave their homes to go to the office, go shopping in town, t...
