Report description:

In the Philippines, LCD TVs continue to dominate volume sales in home video primarily due to their affordability compared to their OLED TV counterparts. The average price of an LCD TV is significantly lower, making it a more accessible option for a wider range of consumers. For instance, while a high-end OLED TV might start at around PHP50,000, LCD TVs can be found for as little as PHP10,000 to PHP20,000, offering a viable alternative for those on a tighter budget. This price disparity is a cruc...
