Report description:

In 2024, mobile phones in Sweden experiences a slight decline in total volume sales, with smartphones recording a marginal increase. The decline in feature phone volumes is primarily due to the obsolescence of their technology and their replacement by smartphones. However, the growth in smartphone sales is tempered by the rising popularity of second-hand and refurbished phones, which appeal to cost-conscious and sustainability-aware households. This trend negatively impacts the sales of lower-pr...
