Report description:

In 2024, the high cost of living and inflationary pressures are significantly impacting the demand for imaging devices in Nigeria. The steep rise in prices has led to a strong decline in the sales of imaging devices, as consumers' purchasing power has been eroded. Even professional photographers are finding it difficult to acquire digital cameras and have resorted to renting cameras for their shoots. The overall economic climate has thus been unfavourable for the product area, contributing to a...
