Report description:

Chile is considered one of the countries with the highest cheese consumption rates in the region, amounting to 9.2 kgs per capita. In recent years, cheese consumption has grown significantly nationwide. This increase is due both to the development of new locally produced varieties and to the growing supply of different origins, types, and flavours. Among the products in the category, retail demand for spreadable cheese remains above pre-pandemic levels despite a marginal decline in early 2024, a...
