Report description:

Retail volume sales of dermatologicals in Argentina are expected to decrease in 2024 against a backdrop of escalating prices and high costs of living. President Javier Milei applied strong fiscal measures in late 2023 and reduced public spending, whilst electricity, gas and fuel costs increased. These factors generated a strong decrease in the purchasing power of citizens. As a result, demand for non-essential products including dermatologicals is under pressure.

Euromonitor International's Dermatologicals in Argentina report offers a comprehensive guide to the size and shape of the market at a national level.
