Report description:

In 2024, NRT smoking cessation aids is set to experience low positive retail current value growth in the US. While no category is expected to achieve significant success, NRT gum is the only one projected to report positive current value growth, with NRT lozenges and patches set to decline. Notably, NRT patches is expected to see solid declines in current value terms over the forecast period, as these products are struggling to compete with the growing popularity of newer, more convenient oral a...
