Report description:

Sleep aids is set to continue its decline in retail current value terms in the US in 2024, further offsetting the strong growth surge experienced during the peak pandemic years of 2020 and 2021, when many consumers faced severe stress-related insomnia. While the soft performances seen from 2022 can be seen as a gradual return to the pre-pandemic level of sales, the overall sleep space has experienced a renaissance in recent years as a result of the pandemic, with new product launches redefining...
