Report description:

The prevalence of overweight and obesity is increasing rapidly both globally and in Algeria in 2024. This trend is driving the demand for weight management and wellbeing products. Algerian health experts have noted a steady rise in the number of obese children and adults each year. Contributing factors include a sedentary lifestyle and a lack of moderate-to-vigorous physical activity, both of which are becoming more common across the population. As a result, weight management and wellbeing produ...
