Report description:

Sports nutrition is set to maintain exceptionally strong retail current value growth in South Korea in 2024, although slower than in previous years. Sports nutrition products were traditionally consumed by younger consumers, but now, with an ageing population, middle-aged and older consumers are increasingly spending on sports protein products for muscle health, which is contributing to growth. In addition, the self-improvement-driven 20s and 30s are also making protein a regular part of their d...
