Report description:

Analgesics is set to see current value growth in Norway in 2024. The consumption of painkillers/analgesics is expected to increase during the year, following a corrective decline in 2023. The two previous years had seen booming growth, following the "return to normal" after the COVID-19 crisis. Demographic factors, primarily an ageing population, combined with lifestyle habits, such as an increase screen exposure, sedentary lifestyles, and work pressure/stress are driving the increase in demand...
