Report description:

In 2024, Uzbekistan's consumer health landscape faces various challenges, with the over-the-counter (OTC) goods set to record a decline in retail volume. Government regulations requiring mandatory marking on all OTC products, led to limited availability and instability, with the range of options falling. Consequently, there is set to be a noticeable decrease in sales volume, particularly affecting market players who are unable to implement the necessary markings on their products. Following the...
