Report description:

In 2024, as in 2023, cooking ingredients and meals in South Korea is set to maintain low retail volume growth and stronger retail current value growth. In 2023, there were surges in raw materials prices for cooking ingredients and meals in South Korea, primarily driven by climate change and geopolitical issues, which further pushed up average unit prices. This created an upward trend in current value sales of cooking ingredients and meals, presenting significant challenges for consumers when mak...
