Report description:

In 2024, Uruguay's GDP rose by 3.5% and purchasing power continued to recover, with salaries increasing above inflation. As a result, sales of cooking ingredients and meals registered positive growth in retail volume terms in 2024, reversing the decline experienced in 2023. Furthermore, after several years of elevated inflation rates, several categories in cooking ingredients and meals recorded a price contraction in 2024. The drop in international prices of edible oils significantly contributed...
