Report description:

Plant-based milk remains the dominant product in plant-based dairy in Australia, with the overall category continuing to benefit from the growing veganism trend in Australia in 2023. This trend is significantly impacting the popularity of plant-based milk products as well as the choice of packaging. As more Australians adopt vegan or plant-based diets, there is heightened demand for plant-based milk products. Brick liquid cartons, the dominant pack type in plant-based milk, align well with this...
