Report description:

The impact of inflation in Australia is slowing in 2024, as indicated by insights from Euromonitor International's Economics and Consumers system. Commodities such as sugar, coffee, and tea show a downward trend, helping to moderate unit prices in 2024 and contributing to more modest value growth. Nevertheless, prices remain elevated compared to pre-pandemic levels, and other ongoing challenges, including rising labour and energy costs, continue to impact business operations.
