Report description:

Special baby milk formula was the best performer in milk formula in 2023, seeing positive growth in retail volume terms. Manufacturers are addressing common issues like allergies to cow's milk protein and other intolerances. In addition, many parents are choosing free-from varieties, believing them to be healthier or more nutritious, even if their child does not have specific intolerances. As these formulas are considered premium options, packaging trends are shifting. Folding cartons and shaped...
