Report description:

Baby food packaging volumes maintained solid growth in the Netherlands in 2023. Prepared baby food maintained its rise in packaging volumes, as these products offer convenience to time-pressed parents. Glass jars and stand-up pouches remained the leading pack types within the category in 2023, accounting for similar shares of packaging volumes. Glass benefits from being an inert material, and thus does not interact with the food inside, ensuring that the taste, quality, and safety of the baby fo...
