Report description:

After several years of solid growth since the pandemic started in 2020, total processed fruit and vegetables packaging volumes declined in Turkey in 2023. However, while frozen processed fruit and vegetables maintained solid although slower growth, this was outweighed by the decline seen in the dominant category of shelf stable fruit and vegetables. An increasing number of consumers are aware of the nutritional benefits of frozen fruit and vegetables, which are often perceived as a convenient an...
