Report description:

In 2023, potatoes in the UK faced substantial challenges due to adverse weather conditions, including droughts and floods, compounded by unusually cold and wet weather, even during the summer months. These factors severely impacted production levels, resulting in tighter supplies and double-digit retail price increases, which in turn led to reduced volume sales. This trend of shortages has persisted into 2024, exacerbated by a decline in the total area planted with potatoes, leading to smaller c...
