Report description:

Canada has an ageing population and a modest birth rate. Its population in 2023 continued to be mainly city-based, and bolstered by immigration, adding to increasing racial-ethnic diversity. Canada's homes have excellent broadband access and there has been widespread adoption of digital technologies. Due to rising living costs, many Canadians are trying to curb their spending and are focusing on low-cost goods and services. Health and sustainability continue to be areas of concern.
