Report description:

Microwaves in Poland experienced a mixed performance in 2024 with marginal growth in retail volume terms and robust current value growth. While unit sales recovered modestly, there was also a stronger trend towards higher-value microwaves and price increases within the category. Overall, microwave penetration remains relatively low in Polish households, standing at 37% in 2024. Growing acceptance and understanding of the safety of microwave technology is driving uptake of these appliances with m...
